Appellant Gregory Taylor, by and through his undersigned attorney, per Florida Rule of Appellate Procedure 9.330, files this Motion for Rehearing Certification and requests this Court to certify this case to The Florida Supreme Court on the grounds that this Court's opinion is in direct conflict with the opinion of the Second District Court of Appeal in Verizzo v. Bank of New York, 28 So.3d 976 (Fla. 2d DCA 2010).

Mr. Taylor further requests this Court to certify the following questions to The Florida Supreme Court as one of great public importance:

“Whether a negotiable instrument promissory note made payable to a specifically identified person is enforceable by another person in the absence of an indorsement from the payee?”

“Is an assignment of mortgage from Mortgage Electronic Registration System, Inc. (MERS), without proof that MERS ever had possession of the underlying promissory note or that it was authorized by the original lender to make such an assignment, sufficient proof to foreclose upon a mortgage in a summary judgment proceeding?”
